

5th International Conference for S & SE Asia, on New Developments in "Thermoplastic Elastomers"

This is the 5th conference devoted to the science, technology, applications and developments taking place within the field of thermoplastic elastomers, including alloys, blends and compounds, as well as developments in sustainable, bio-based products and the effects that environmental issues will have on the future growth on TPEs. Areas to be covered will include already well established applications but also new emerging applications and markets. Processing of TPEs by Extrusion and Co-injection will also be considered.
